GRICAGO, January 6.—The influx of hogs was greater than estimated, and in consequence May pork opened So, off at $15.50; the heavy selling immediately sent it down to $15.35. May wheat and corn started in respectively at $45.0 and $55.0. Wheat sold off with pork to $45.0, and corn to blue. Reports of a snow blockade in the Northwest firmed wheat to $15.0, at the end of the first hour, then the business in wheat picked up a little. There was some very heavy selling, and May fell to $14.0. Corn was featureless. May pork in the mean time broke to $15.27%, and at 19:30 o'clock it held steady at $15.37%, affore the close the markets were stronger and higher on reports that a cold wave would surely come.

JANUARY 6, 1888.

The tobacco market showed no feature of interest to-day. Sales were light but watched with close interest. A great deal of old and double. old tobacco seems to have been resampled, while no little has been reinspected as fresh packages lately. Next week we may expect good loose receipts and also large offerings of new brights.
